Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, Pa., June 17.—A weary smile split the lips of Tommy Armour. His jet black hair, grayed a bit by the years of the great war, was rumpled by the clutching hands of the golf wild mob. His blue-gray Scottish eyes glistened with hidden tears and for once the ready tongue of the handsome Scot was silent.

He was champion of the nation's golfers.

Later the dignitaries presented him with the greatest trophy of all golf, the movie cameras clicked their celluloid history for the world to him and the cheers of the thousands rang again in his ears, but that last minute on the eighteenth green in the shadow of the gigantic Oakmont clubhouse will carve an indelible impression on the brain of big Tom Armour that will remain far longer than the formality of the scene, a few minutes later.

He had won the championship in a play-off from Light Horse Harry Cooper, the Jack Sharkey of golf, by a score of 76 to 79. He won the admiration of 12,000 rabid golf fans, who fought, suffered and bled with Tommy through 18 of the most thrilling play-off holes in the history of the game.

His words, as the cup was presented, mirrored the spirit of the Scot as truly as the smile in his eyes mirrored the joy in his heart.

"Of course I'm glad," said Tom, as he picked up the cup from the hands of the table under his hand. "But I guess I was pretty lucky with such a great field to beat."

Word Picture.
There you have a word picture of Tom Armour, as fine a gentleman as exists among the professionals of the rank and file of the golfing world, but the sudden rise of Tom Armour to fame assured his feeling to a great extent. Bob Jones will always be the greatest favorite of all the champions, but he gladly yields a share of this esteem to the big Scot.

Harry Cooper fought the breaks of the game with a dogged tenacity that deserves nothing but praise. He lost the championship, but he won the esteem of the nation.

Germany Pays Fliers' Wives Many Honors

Candy Supplies, Already Received, Will Last for Months.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Berlin, June 17.—(United Press.)—The German government has decided to pay the wives of fliers who were killed in action during the war.

Half of the airplane which they brought into the German capital was filled with flowers they received throughout the day; the porters who trailed them into the Hotel Adlon had armfuls of loving cups, boxes of silverware and candy. In their rooms they found piles of newly arrived presents. The Swiss government sent its best wrist watches for the fliers. Aluminum suitcases, especially built for airplanes, were on the desks of the men, while flowers and candy loaded the tables of the ladies in the royal suite given them by the Hotel Adlon.

The candy alone is sufficient to last them for months to come. Madgeburg and Hamburg gave the fliers and their spouses the same rush as the other German towns. Their visit to Hamburg was punctuated with conferences with Director Cuno, of the Hamburg-American line, on a new trans-oceanic line and its possible connections with the shipping lines. The fliers' eleventh triumphal day began at Bremen this morning. At Bremen the council of senators of the city formally received the fliers' wives after their journey on the steamer Berlin in the historic Rathaus, one of the architectural wonders of Germany. The great oak paneled reception hall the two American women lined up as it they were to be sentenced. They heard the address of welcome from Burgomaster Spitta, who spoke with tremendous good will, both in English and German.

LEAGUE SESSION ENDS IN DISCORD

German Delegation Bitter Because Nations' Delegates Did Consent To Reduce Occupation Army.

Geneva, June 17.—(United Press.)—The forty-fifth session of the council of the league of nations came to an end today in an atmosphere of uneasiness despite its success in settling a number of questions possessing importance in European relations.

The feeling of uneasiness accompanying the adjournment was due chiefly to the unqualified bitterness of the German delegation over their failure to obtain a definite reduction of the number of occupational troops in the Rhineland, and also to apprehensions over relations between Russia and Poland, which vitally concern France as an ally of Poland.

In connection with the Rhineland question Marshal Foch is represented as opposing any reduction of the number of occupational troops until the spirit of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles.

Officials here express belief that the condition of the Russian army will not permit Russia to start a war but since Russia is not a member of the league and not subject to the provision of the covenant, they are content. Bob Jones will always be the greatest favorite of all the champions, but he gladly yields a share of this esteem to the big Scot.

Harry Cooper fought the breaks of the game with a dogged tenacity that deserves nothing but praise. He lost the championship, but he won the esteem of the nation.

BARBE OFFERED IN POWER SUIT, WITNESS SAYS

Court Told Attorney for Plaintiff in Damage Case Tried To Buy Evidence Against Company.

"FRAME-UP," HILL
ANSWERS CHARGE

Counsel for Woman Who Lost Husband in Accident Declares Police-Man's Testimony False.

Judge E. D. Thomas, of the civil division of Fulton superior court, adjourned court Friday until Monday after hearing evidence tending to show that Edwin R. Hill, of Decatur, an attorney, had attempted to buy testimony in the damage suit case on trial.

The attorney was one of counsel employed by Mrs. Troy Harris, in her suit seeking to secure $60,000 damages from the Georgia Power company for the death of her husband, who was killed in a collision between an automobile and a street car, the property of the defendant company, on Ponce de Leon avenue at Linwood last June.

After the plaintiff's counsel had rested its case, Attorney Ben Conyers, representing the defendant company, called County Policeman E. D. West to the stand.

Upon being informed of the nature of the testimony of the witness, Judge Thomas excluded the jury from the courtroom and heard the officer testify that he took the typewritten statement in his house but that he refused to accept any money or to testify.

Roy Wynn, claim agent for the power company, testified that he, also, was approached by Rogers and that he had called in the county police. Officer West testified that Wynn had introduced him to Rogers.

A conference of the superior court judges has been called by Judge Thomas to discuss the matter and it is expected that an investigation will be conducted.

Attorney Hill, who was seated in court throughout the presentation of this testimony, denied that he had ever tried to buy testimony in a case and charged that the accusation was a "frame-up." The assertion that he tried to buy any testimony is "utterly false," he added.

MARSHAL CHANG NOW IS DICTATOR

Ousting of All Russians From China, Suppression of Communists Is Aim Avowed.

New York, June 17.—(United Press.)—A new dictator has appeared on the horizon of world affairs. Marshal Chang Tso-lin, ex-barrister war lord of Mukden, Manchuria, and strong man of the north Chinese government in Peking, announced Friday that he was "accepting" the civil and military dictatorship over that vast territory which lies between Japanese and soviet Russian possessions on the north and the Yellow river in the south.

Long hailed as virtual dictator of North China and for months exercising the powers of a dictator, Marshal Chang finally was persuaded that the title as well as the office had as well be his. From 4 o'clock Friday he announced he would be known as generalissimo.

China's Mussolini, who, because of the extent of his domain and the importance of his position, will rank second to Italy's premier as the holder of dictatorial power, caused his military headquarters to announce immediate consolidation of the northern armies, with the purpose of repelling the southern advance which seriously menaces Marshal Chang's power. His northern cabinet will be reorganized to give him power that will exceed even that of the famous Tzu Chi-jui as chief executive.

Coolidge Barely Misses Hail Storm in Dakota

PLUM-SIZED PELLETS SMASH WINDOWS

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Rapid City, S. D., June 17.—President Coolidge took up the task of directing the nation's affairs in a plain American school house room, three blocks from Main street, in this city, today.

Half an hour after he had finished his morning work with his secretary and had received 30 newspaper correspondents in conference, a terrific hail and rain storm descended upon the city from the western hills, breaking windows in the executive offices as well as in many other buildings.

The president rode ahead of the storm, the private road turns off the lodge, 32 miles away, without getting caught.

Hail stones as big as plums did considerable damage to stores, automobiles, tops and crops and caused horses to bolt, riderless through the streets. It was a touch of whimsical mountain storm, turning from golden warmth to roaring storm and back to blue peace again in an hour.

Will Receive Delegations.
Sitting in his new office, a bare place with black and white walls, the freshman class usually sits, the president let it be known that he has planned several short trips for the summer "days of his celebration," an occasion when the hill people recall the early mining days scenes, recall Deadwood, Wild Bill Hickock and Samuels, and putting no emphasis on the agricultural element. He will go to Deadwood during the first week in August to attend the "days of his celebration," an occasion when the hill people recall the early mining days scenes, recall Deadwood, Wild Bill Hickock and Samuels, and putting no emphasis on the agricultural element.

This place in the hills is just exactly what I like," the president said, "in extending the celebration to the state and to the nation, I am sure that Dakota people for his reception here and for their preparations for the comfort of his party. He expressed regret that he did not see

Kidnap Plot Pipe Dream Mary Thinks

Screen Star and Her Husband Doug Get Free Publicity.

BY GEORGE H. BEALE.
Beverly Hills, Cal., June 17.—(United Press.)—Mary Pickford believes the reported plot to kidnap her, a her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, is a "pipe dream," she said today through her press representative.

Nevertheless, Chief of Police Blair continued to follow the movements of Mary and Doug with a shotgun squad and extra guards were placed about Pickford, home of the movie stars.

"All we know is that a man giving the name of H. L. Brady, of Los Angeles, reported he heard three men plotting to kidnap Fairbanks and Miss Pickford for $100,000 ransom," Blair said, explaining the sudden police protection accorded the stars.

"We are not concerned with the authenticity of the report, other than preventing any possible harm to Miss Pickford or Fairbanks."

"Two additional men have been detailed at Pickford and the stars are being closely guarded in their movements," said the chief of police.

"No alarm is felt by Miss Pickford or anyone else connected with the studio," Larkin told the United Press. "Certainly we have police on duty, but we are not in a state of alarm."

Replying to Bishop Manning's denunciation of the Michigan pastor's views, Rev. William Norman Guthrie, pastor of St. Mark's church in New York, who recently said the New Testament was written by "a lot of chumps," said here today:

"Bishop Manning does not speak for the church of New York, much less for the Protestant Episcopal Church of America. He speaks only for himself."

ARMY PLANNING PACIFIC FLIGHT IN NEW PLANE

Preparations Have Been Held Secret for Many Months in Order To Complete Tests.

NAVY ASSISTANCE
NOT TO BE ASKED

Two Fliers Not Eligible To Receive Prizes in Event of Success of Hawaiian Flight.

Washington, June 17.—(United Press.)—An attempt to span the Pacific ocean by air will be made by the army air corps if success marks final tests now being given the giant Fokker transport plane selected for the hop.

The 2,300-mile flight would be made in July by Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert F. Heenger.

This was announced today by Assistant Secretary Davidson in charge of the army's air activities, when the Fokker plane, en route to the west coast from Dayton, Ohio, to complete its tests, stirred up rumors that it would attempt a flight to the islands.

Plans for the hop, it was disclosed, have been held in secret for some months with the intention of keeping them confidential until everything was in readiness.

Meets Every Test.
Mr. Davidson said the plane had met every test to date with complete success, and he was confident that the flight would be authorized and completed.

He emphasized that it was an army project of long standing, without inspiration drawn from the transatlantic flights of Lindbergh and Chamberlain, and that it had no connection with prizes recently offered for a Hawaiian flight.

The plane which Maitland and Heenger plan to use is in contrast to the late Commander John Rodgers of the navy to make the same non-stop flight in 1925, the army fliers will not have the assistance of naval ships stationed along the line of passage. They will do their own navigating employing the latest devices, including the earth inductor compass used by Lindbergh, the magnetic and celestial compasses and the more recent radio beacon.

Plane Is Contrast.
The plane which Maitland and Heenger plan to use is in contrast to the late Commander John Rodgers of the navy to make the same non-stop flight in 1925, the army fliers will not have the assistance of naval ships stationed along the line of passage.

JAPANESE ENVOY OUTLINES PLANS

Admiral Denies Intention To Raise Question of Internationalization of Panama Canal.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 17.—(United Press.)—Japan has no intention of raising the question of the internationalization of the Panama canal or a reduction in the strength of the naval bases at Hawaii and Singapore at the forthcoming naval conference, Admiral Koyashiki, one of Japan's chief naval delegates here, told the Associated Press tonight.

The admiral added that the Japanese representatives would confine their initiative to obtaining an agreement on warships not covered by the Washington treaty.

Admiral Koyashiki said the Japanese were greatly pleased with the decision of the United States not to strengthen the American fortifications in the far east and would not think of asking for reductions near the shores of the United States. He admitted, however, that the Japanese were worried at the power of the British Singapore base.

Admiral Koyashiki declined to say whether Japan would accept the 5-5-3 ratio for cruisers, destroyers and submarines. He did say, however, that Japan wants a total tonnage high enough to permit her to have a sufficient number of ships to defend her island empire and therefore gave more importance to a quantity of sizable ships than to the question of their ratio.

The Japanese delegate said Japan had come to Geneva in a spirit of conciliation in an endeavor to reach a fair agreement. Admiral Saito and Viscount Ishii, the other Japanese delegates called upon Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the American delegation, this afternoon, and virtually gave him the same assurance officially.

Mighty Welcome Given By St. Louis As Lindy Arrives

Coolidge Fish Catch Draws Borah's Wrath

Reed and Idaho Man Scoff at Landing Trout With Worm Bait.

Washington, June 17.—(United Press.)—There was amazement in senatorial circles today at dispatches from the summer white house in South Dakota reporting President Coolidge as catching trout with worms.

Some said the president had done the impossible. Others said the worm stories were the work of imaginative city correspondents ignorant of how to approach a trout in a gentlemanly way.

Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, was so deeply concerned that he made his first public utterance in weeks.

"They must have been imbecile trout," he said. "My interpretation is that the president must have caught not trout but catfish. I never heard of catching a trout with a worm. I supposed it was an impossibility. Those South Dakota trout must be so elated over the president's coming to their state that they joined in the welcome procession. I don't know about the ethics of catching them that way, but it certainly is a new method. A man who could catch a trout with a worm is likely to do anything."

Senator Reed, Missouri democrat, also was amused.

"Any trout that would bite on a worm is degenerate," he said emphatically.

The United Press sought further expert advice from the United States bureau of fisheries and a high official there, who warned against using his name, said:

"Worms are the very best bait for trout. Fish are used only by aristocratic anglers who believe it is below their dignity to use a lowly worm."

JEALOUSY CAUSES DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Spurned Suitor Slays Woman and Kills Self as Little Girl Watches Tragedy.

Jealousy once again exacted its fatal toll at an early hour Friday morning when 11-year-old Louise Black helplessly looked on while Homer M. McTyre, former suitor for her mother's hand, shot and killed Mrs. Belle E. Black and turned the pistol on himself. Both died within a few minutes.

McTyre, a roomer in the building at 723 Ponders avenue where Mrs. Black lived with her daughter, had gone to Mrs. Black's room about 4:30 o'clock Friday morning. He pleaded with her to marry him, and when she refused, he fired. Mrs. Black was 35 and McTyre 40.

Because Louise Black witnessed the tragic shooting and because J. E. Henry, street car conductor and McTyre's roommate who was seated across the hall from the scene, saw what transpired, no inquest is likely to be held. Coroner Paul Donehue said Friday.

Tell of Threats.
Police investigators were told that McTyre had threatened to kill Mrs. Black last Wednesday night because she had announced her intention of marrying C. F. Fitts, of 806 Lowndes avenue, last night. Fitts, who accompanied Mrs. Black to her daughter, Louise, to a motion picture theater.

AVIATOR IS FACING
2 STRENUOUS DAYS

Lindy Drops Down on St. Louis Field From Out of Throng—Crowds Are Kept Back.

St. Louis, June 17.—(United Press.)—A graceful, silver monoplane, trailed by a work-worn biplane of the United States air mail service, hummed suddenly out of the deep haze hanging over Lambert-St. Louis field at 3:32 o'clock this afternoon and five minutes later Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was home.

Of all the planes up to meet the world-acclaimed hero only that piloted by a buddy of the air mail service from which the young history-maker is on leave was able to find him in the murky 15 minutes between the flying field and St. Louis. It was flown by Philip R. (Red) Love and carried an Associated Press correspondent as a passenger.

Hundreds of thousands of St. Louisans grouped on roofs, river banks and in open spaces had cheered "Lucky Slim" to an echo perhaps inaudible to him for twenty minutes while he maneuvered his "Spirit of St. Louis" over the downtown and residence section, coveting in sweeps and swirls of sheer joy at being again over his own home town.

Love Greets King of Air.
But it remained for Love to be the first to greet the intrepid king of the air and guide him to Lambert-St. Louis field, where five thousand rain-drenched men and women, including the world famed young flier's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, and Dwight Davis, of St. Louis, secretary of war, waited to greet him.

The crowd, which might well have numbered 200,000, was held to the comparative handful by strict injunction of the arrangements committee to keep away from the flying field.

St. Louis' public acclaim for the youth, who has spread its fame before the eyes of the world for more than a month since he hopped here from San Diego and thence to New York for his epochal solo flight to Paris, was saved for tomorrow and Sunday, when all the honors that a grateful city and state can bestow will be heaped upon those which already have been showered upon him at home and abroad.

Tonight "Slim"—that's his St. Louis name, "Lindy"—being awarded far-aided—left the world for more than a month since he hopped here from San Diego and thence to New York for his epochal solo flight to Paris, was saved for tomorrow and Sunday, when all the honors that a grateful city and state can bestow will be heaped upon those which already have been showered upon him at home and abroad.

There will be nothing on his program, except a few hours with his mother, an informal dinner and rest against the two strenuous days immediately ahead.

New York.
Colonel Lindbergh left New York for his trip home at 6:17 o'clock, St. Louis time, this morning, and, as if reluctant to come down, prolonged his flight until he had been in the air nine hours and 20 minutes for his hop east May 12.

The reception for the famous young aviator will be held at the airport.

SOUTHERN TEXTILE
LEADERS PRAISED
BY W. H. GIBSON

Asheville, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—The south's greatest contribution to the textile industry has been the development of men whose foresight and vision have advanced the south to a ranking place in the production of cotton goods. W. H. Gibson, of Blaine, N. C., president of the Southern Textile Association, declared at the annual meeting of the organization at the Kenilworth Inn today.

"A few years ago," he said, "the north said the south could not manufacture textiles of fine quality, but we have proved we can. We sent our youth to school to learn how to manufacture textiles, we studied the textile industry from every standpoint and we perfected our machinery until right now the southern textile manufacturers are producing as good or better goods than any subdivision of the world."

BOOSTERS TO SELECT MEETING PLACE TODAY

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—Invitations for the 1928 convention of the Dixie Boosters occupied the major portion of the morning business session at the DeSoto hotel today with Atlanta, Chattanooga, Nashville and Birmingham as chief contenders for the honor. Selection will be made tomorrow.

The next place of meeting was injected into the day's proceedings shortly after the session opened with the reading of minutes for the 1926 convention, in which there was a clause declaring the intention of Chattanooga to withdraw her invitation for the year's convention in favor of Savannah. If the latter delegation would support a 1928 Chattanooga invitation at the present meeting.

After a heated discussion it was decided that this was in no manner binding upon Savannah delegates, but indications showed a decided sentiment in favor of holding the 1928 convention in Chattanooga. If this sentiment crystallizes, J. C. Cox, of that city, will probably be the next booster chairman.

Nashville made a strong plea. Communications were read from Governor Austin Peay, the mayor of Nashville, the chamber of commerce and local lodges of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which the boosters is an offshoot, urging its selection. Earl Lehr urged Atlanta, and Birmingham communications also were read.

Other speakers at the session were Mrs. Clara Bradley, Cleveland, Ohio, grand president of the Women's auxiliary B. R. T.; Judge Clifford Davis, of Nashville; Mrs. L. L. Flood, chairman of the boosters, Savannah, and Mr. Cox.

POLICE OFFICER RESCUES FAMILY

Awakened early Friday morning by a loud noise, Police Officer O. R. Jones, of the Atlanta police department, with their family, the family of Abraham Cohen, at 483 Central avenue, clad only in night clothes escaped from the home just a few minutes before the entire roof caved in, according to fire reports. Lieutenant Jones, who was passing the home at the time, noticed smoke coming from the roof. He immediately pounded on the door to awaken the family but without success. He used a club to break a window and aroused those in the home in time to escape before the roof caved in. A fire alarm was sounded and due to the nearest company being at another fire, it was several minutes before firemen arrived. The Cohen home and two adjacent ones were considerably damaged, according to fire reports. Fire of undetermined origin caused considerable damage to a grocery at L. Levine at 519 Pulliam street and caused a delay in firemen reaching the Central avenue fire.

A fire in the plant of the Miller Manufacturing company at 45 1/2 Mitchell street, caused considerable damage to the two-story structure early Friday morning, according to fire reports. The Miller Manufacturing company is a clothing factory.

CREDIT MEN HONOR M'COMAS AT LUNCHEON

F. B. McComas, head of the big wholesale dry goods company in Los Angeles which bears his name, former president of the National Association of Credit Men and one of the leading commercial figures of the country, Friday was honor guest of the Atlanta Credit Men's association at a luncheon tendered him at the Capital City club. Addressing the meeting, Mr. McComas reviewed the splendid work which organized credit men have done for general business prosperity of the nation and expressed hope that the national association will proceed to analyze and solve vital problems which now confront the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer.

AVONDALE BAPTIST SUBJECT IS "JONAH"

The Rev. Adiel Jarrett Moncrief, Jr., pastor of the Avondale Baptist church, Avondale Estates, is preaching a series of Sunday night sermons in June on the Old Testament prophecies in the light of modern times. Next Sunday night Mr. Moncrief will speak on the subject: "Jonah—A Lesson in Obedience and Not a 'Fish Story'." The last of the series will be delivered next Sunday evening, June 26, on Malachi's prophecy.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE IN MURDER CASE

Frank Phillips, negro, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday by Judge John S. Wood, of the Fulton circuit, who is presiding in Fulton superior court in the absence of Judge G. H. Howard, following the presentation of a consent verdict of guilty to murder.

MARK "FATHERS' DAY" AT FIRST CHRISTIAN

The First Christian church will observe Fathers' day on Sunday morning. The pastor, C. R. Stauffer, will preach. In the evening the pastor will preach on "A Youth Captured by the World's Admiration." The Bible school held its annual election last Monday, electing a general superintendent, Dr. Elzie R. Thomas, Jr., general secretary, W. C. Stanley, treasurer, R. W. Norris, superintendent of cradle roll, Miss Gertrude Mims; beginners, Mrs. F. L. Eyles; primary, Mrs. A. M. Baidinger; junior, Mrs. Benton George; intermediate, Mrs. E. B. Quick; senior, F. L. Eyles; young people, Edward Small; adult, W. E. Hopkins.

ROADS PROPOSAL UP TUESDAY NIGHT

Plans for organizing a private corporation with $200,000,000 capital to take over the road building program of the state of Georgia will be outlined at a meeting of the President's club of Atlanta Monday night by Judge Powell, president of the club, and Colonel Frederic J. Paxon, secretary.

Recently Judge Powell held a conference with the Harbison National Bank of New York relative to the proposed plan and will outline the details at the meeting to be held at the Biltmore hotel Monday night. About 500 guests have been invited including Governor Clifford Walker, Governor-elect L. G. Hardman, of Commerce; members of the two branches of the state legislature, members of the Georgia delegation in congress and leading state officials.

Under the proposed plan the private corporation will be given the revenue of the state gasoline tax and possibly the revenue from the sale of automobile license tags. With this revenue it will sell its own obligations and the state will in no way be under any obligations to pay these bonds.

FEDERAL PRISONERS ASK EARLY ACTION

Henry Lee Rauschenberg, of Birmingham, and Charlie Anthony Timbrell, of Ainsley, Ala., both 14 years of age and last seen in the Fulton tower charged with illegal transportation of an automobile from Birmingham to Mableton, Ga., will be indicted by the grand jury convening at Gainesville on July 5. It was announced at the federal building Friday.

Rauschenberg and Timbrell signed before the Gainesville grand jury instead of in Atlanta in order that their case might be heard earlier. The grand jury convening at Gainesville meets before one does in Atlanta.

W. R. Hart, of Atlanta, also in Fulton tower, charged with violation of the state law, filed a similar petition as did Al. Fred O. Young, of Atlanta, held for illegally transporting an automobile from Erie, Pa., to Cartersville, Ga.

$10,000 BROAD STREET WORKING FUND SOUGHT

Impetus was given the proposed Broad street extension project Friday, when it was learned that city officials are endeavoring to raise $10,000 to set up a "working fund" to negotiate for options for the improvement.

At the same time Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth ward and chairman of a special committee, called a special meeting of the committee on Tuesday morning.

Suggestion was made Friday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Atlanta Improvement association, that the fund be set up, and C. D. Knight, president of the organization, and Frank Neely, former president, were asked to assist in finding an "agent" to act for the city in securing the options.

Chief of Construction William A. Hunsell, Assistant Chief E. Kauffmann, Alderman William B. Hartsfield and Robert R. Otis, prominent real estate man, spoke at the meeting, urging the steps be taken as soon as possible to secure the improvement. The association endorsed the proposal and pledged its efforts in backing it.

The $10,000 fund would have to be appropriated by city council and it was stated Friday that it would be sought at the meeting of that body Monday.

Mr. Ford and his committee will seek to devise some means of pushing the project to early completion at the session Tuesday and will offer the report at a meeting of city council July 4.

Improvement of Georgia Living Conditions Urged in Arkwright's Address

Cedartown, Ga., June 17.—(Special.)—Georgia's most important job today is to improve its schools, its roads and living conditions generally, so that it may attract new industries and new people, Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, told the members of the Cedartown Kiwanis club here today.

Mr. Arkwright declared that the connecting up of communities in all parts of the state with high tension transmission lines, thereby affording every community the secret of all power necessary for it to accommodate any kind of industry, was having a splendid effect in decentralizing industry. Decentralization of industry, he said, will be one of the greatest steps possible in building up every part of the state.

Paul A. Merriam, president, presided at the meeting, which was one of the best attended that the local Kiwanis organization has ever held. Mr. Arkwright was the only speaker.

Counties that have high tension distribution lines connecting them with the resources of the Georgia Power company, and, in turn, with power companies of other states, are the ones that are showing the greatest forward movement, Mr. Arkwright asserted, stating that this was not an idle statement, but one borne out by records available at the state capitol.

He declared that Georgia, with its hilly climate, its low tax rate, and its fair attitude towards industry, had the greatest opportunity of any state in the union to attract new industry and to increase its agricultural wealth, and that the most important job now facing the state was for every citizen to cooperate in securing these two things.

"If we all pull together," Mr. Arkwright said, "we can take advantage of the opportunity that now is facing us, for Georgia is standing upon the threshold of an era of great development, and upon the way the citizens cooperate will determine the future prosperity of the state."

FULTON SENATOR WITHDRAWS FROM PRESIDING RACE

Walter C. Hendrix, representing the 35th district, which includes Fulton county, in the state senate, who has been a candidate for the presidency of that body, Friday announced that he has withdrawn his name from further consideration for this position.

Senator Hendrix is the only holdover member of the senate as the Fulton senator is usually accorded two terms, something not given any other senatorial district. In the other districts the usual rotation plan is followed, each county in the district being allotted one term for the senator.

"In order to bring about as much harmony as possible in the senate I decided to withdraw my name from further consideration for the post of the presidency," Senator Hendrix said. "This is going to be an important session of the legislature and harmony should prevail as far as possible. I am withdrawing in favor of no candidate in the race, and have not asked my friends to support any particular candidate."

Other candidates for the presidency are Ed B. Dykes, of DeKalb county; Norton S. Turner, of Brooks county; and John R. Kelley, of Gwinnett county.

Million Dollar Peace Denied By Chaplin Lawyer

San Francisco, June 17.—(AP)—Gavin McNab, chief counsel for Charles Chaplin, today declared, "there is not a word of truth in it," when told of the Los Angeles report that Chaplin has agreed to pay his 18-year-old wife, Lita, $1,000,000 for a peaceable settlement of her marital difficulties.

LOS ANGELES PAPER RECITES DETAILS.

Los Angeles, June 17.—(AP)—The Times states today that it has a well-founded report that Charles Chaplin is about ready to settle his marital differences with his wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, for cash, a million dollars or near it. Actual negotiations to ward a settlement have been resumed.

A silence was maintained on the matter by attorneys for both principals in the divorce action started by the young wife of the film comedian.

Lyndol Young, attorney for Mrs. Chaplin, said last night that he favored a settlement keeping the case out of court and that the sum reported under consideration probably would be satisfactory to his client, Chaplin's attorney, Lloyd Wright, also favored a settlement.

The settlement reports came on the heels of the setting of August 22 as a trial date by Presiding Judge Walton Wood. This was done at the request of Wright, who is the personal attorney here of the film comedian.

The fact that Chaplin's cross-complaint and still remains unanswered by his wife was pointed out as another coincidence in the reported peace negotiations. Both parties have asked for the custody of their two children, but Mrs. Chaplin has repeatedly asserted she would not give them up. His cross-complaint stated she previously had demanded $1,125,000 of him.

LOCAL SCOUT RALLY HERE FOR TWO DAYS

With more than 50 delegates present, representing practically every section of the state, the third annual Georgia Lone Scout rally will be held today and Sunday at the encampment on Hightower road several miles beyond the end of the West View car line, according to officials of the association.

A supper and a general get-together meeting was scheduled to be held Friday night at the encampment but due to bad weather conditions it was postponed and will be held tonight.

Among events scheduled to be held during the rally are lectures, scout training, a barbecue, numerous entertaining features, including a performance by Julian Boehm, Atlanta amateur magician, athletic contests of various kinds and a general business conference.

Election of officers for the year will be a feature of the afternoon session today. Three vacancies on the state council will be filled and a state secretary-treasurer will be elected. A meeting place for the next rally will also be selected at the afternoon session.

Officers of the union are John Daniel, of Americus, president; James Thomas, of Milledgeville, vice president, and John W. Downing, of Valdosta, and Preston B. Brown, of Atlanta, members of the council.

TWO FILLING STATIONS HALTED BY PROTESTS

Erection of two filling stations was held up Friday by the streets committee of city council following protests of citizens in communities where they were to have been built.

W. A. Nelson sought to construct one station on Dill avenue, in the Capitol View section of the city, and the Standard Oil company another at Howard street and Boulevard drive.

The first proposal was referred to Councilman W. Garland Cooper, of the tenth ward, and the second to Tom Smith, councilman from the twelfth ward. Action on the Dill avenue petition for the station was taken following an appeal of Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth ward, and Chief of Construction William A. Hunsell were named a special committee to investigate the advisability and feasibility of widening Whitehall street from the junction of Forsyth to Stewart to a 60-foot boulevard instead of 50 feet as has been planned.

City council and Fulton county commission have agreed to take five feet of sidewalk area on each side of the street and to devote it to the widening project, but a committee of property owners appeared before the streets committee Friday, asking that sidewalks be restored to the present width of ten feet after the work has been completed and that the widening be five feet more on each side of the street. Plans were to leave the sidewalks only five feet wide, using the surplus over the five-foot minimum for the roadway.

Other routine matters also were considered at the session.

LATERAL SEWERS AUTHORIZED; U. S. SURVEY FINISHED

Seven new lateral sewers were authorized Friday by the sewer committee of city council and will go to council Monday for approval.

Lieutenant H. O. Henton, of the United States geologic survey, who has been engaged for the past several months in Atlanta making a triangulation survey of the central business district of the city, and who has completed his survey, was thanked for his work in a resolution of the committee. The survey at Washington also was thanked.

Sewers favored by the committee follow:

Askew from Lawton east to the Greensboro trunk line; Montgomery from Woodbine to Meridian; Lake Shore drive from near McLenodon to Ponce de Leon avenue; Oliver street from Kennedy drive to North avenue; Beattell from near Lindsay to Oliver; White from Queen west 145 feet to the trunk line, and Lindsay from North avenue to Proctor.

LEAVE FOR LOVETT EXTRADITION HEARING

Accompanied by T. R. Gress, assistant attorney general of Georgia, Ed A. Stephens, assistant solicitor of Fulton county, left Atlanta Friday morning for Little Rock, Ark., to fight for the extradition of Ralph E. Lovett, wanted here in connection with complicity in the murder of B. T. Donaldson, crime investigator.

The hearing is to be held before Governor Martin Monday. The state officials carried with them a number of affidavits with which they hope to secure the removal of the accused man to this state.

COURT TO PASS ON ACCESSORIES TO "HIGH BALLS"

Washington, June 17.—Whether it is illegal to serve all the accessories to a "highball" without actually selling the liquor used, will have to be decided by the United States supreme court.

Two Chicago night clubs filed briefs in the highest tribunal today seeking reversal of padlock injunctions obtained against them.

According to testimony in the lower courts, which upheld the padlocking, the night clubs served glasses, cracked ice and ginger ale and countenanced the practice of guests in bringing and drinking liquor.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT —OF— HEALTH and ENERGY

The hot sultry days of Summertime brings worries for the housewife in preparing luncheon—especially when there are so many places one wants to go just at the time the lunch is to be prepared. Then there is the health of the kiddies who are growing and need substantial food, to be looked after. Silverman offers relief, however, in their delicious bread. Now the wife may purchase one or more loaves of this bread, make some sandwiches and leave for whatever business or pleasure she may have, knowing that the kiddies may have the necessary vitamins so essential to their health, and that hubby will not be disappointed should he return before she does. Silverman's bread should be a part of the daily diet because it is clean and wholesome and its rich satisfying goodness is unequaled for good health and energy. Made with pure milk and creamery butter.

SILVERMAN'S BREAD

"The Toast of the Town"

That Guy Saunders!

Long Whiskers! He Has Them Not!

Horns! He has them not. A rabbit? He is not. What the h--- then is that guy Saunders? A prophet? No! A bum? No! Didst one say: that a fool he be? Didst another say: crazy?

Whate'er he be that guy Saunders is in this town. 'Tis the trumpet blast! Hear ye, oh, hear ye! Martial strains pour from the band. Some jazz issues forth. 'Tis calling to the blood--be brave--be young--be gay.

Hear ye, oh, people within the city's gates. Hear ye, oh, people of the countryside--a death is near--the black angel hath heard and will hearken.

Banners fly and happy hearts sing the jubilee for the day has come for High Prices to trail in the dust. Yep! But how come? What's all the shooting about?

That guy Saunders is in town with newest Clarence Saunders Store.

Fool! Crazy! Go to it, old boys with your long whiskers and pious faces, and let's have all the ugly words that can squeeze through your teeth for that guy Saunders has heard himself called fool and crazy many a day before as he battered down High Prices--making them Cheaper and Cheaper.

Glory be, that that fool Saunders, or crazy, doesn't mind what they say, for he minds only one thing and that is to be one of the High Price gang who call themselves smart--and he will not be.

That guy Saunders is ready to prove in this town whether he's a fool--whether he's crazy or whether he just sells 'em Cheaper and Cheaper.

The Constitution is on sale in New York City by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Hottel's News Stand, Broadway and 42nd Street; Times Building, corner of 42nd Street and Avenue C; Schall's News Agency, at Bryant Park, and Grand Central Depot.

The Constitution is not responsible for advertisements placed in its columns. It is not responsible for the opinions of its contributors. It is not responsible for the actions of its subscribers. It is not responsible for the actions of its readers.

Member of the Associated Press. The Associated Press is a corporation organized for the purpose of gathering and distributing news. It is not responsible for the actions of its members.

STEADFAST—STANDING:—O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of the Lord to be heard; suffereth not our feet to be moved. Psalm 68: 8.

PRAYER:—We also, O Lord, will go unto the house of the Lord with the multitude that keeps holy day.

ATLANTA SHOWS THE WAY.
Atlanta is showing the way. The press and public promotion bodies throughout the south, and outside the south as well, are illustrating to their communities what Atlanta has done and is doing in the way of civic and industrial progress.

The "Atlanta Spirit" is emphasized and applauded, and the flame of it is catching in many cities, small and large.

The countable practical gains to the city from our convention and advertising campaigns have excited the wonder and emulation of greater communities.

There is a very real and eager race on between ambitious cities to attract and accumulate new and permanent and profitable enterprises. The factors of location, transportation, power, labor, legislation and competition are conspiring to dislocate many industries and relocate them where resources are easier reachable, fabrication cheaper and distribution more centrifugal.

In such conditions of transition the ideal and superior attractions of Atlanta needed only to be made known to become irresistibly magnetic. Our business leaders were quick to sense the facts and showed exemplary courage in taking up the wide and costly work of "selling Atlanta" to the nation. They planned skillfully, worked wisely, and have won for the city a place in the sun of stable prosperity that is admitted and admired from Maine to Mexico.

It is significant that those leaders in many cities who are taking example from Atlanta have not missed the true essence of the "Atlanta Spirit." It is cooperation. It is the will to welcome with complete cordiality and take a full hand's place in the establishment of the new comer and the enterprise he is importing to us.

Atlanta has not been simply "baiting a hole" to attract gudgeons, then to hook and feed upon them. She has been inviting new partners in a huge industrial, commercial and social organization. Those who have accepted her invitations are happy in their new associations and that they are prospering needs no stronger proofs than our weekly bank clearances and our mounting monthly post-office reports.

Atlanta envies none, but she is set upon maintaining her distinction as the way-shower to all who would join the march of modern civic development.

THE NEW "TREASON."
A church newspaper should be more than ordinarily careful in publishing statements of opinion. There are facts in existence which will not yield to ignorance or misinterpretation.

For instance, in a southern church weekly we read that "when the proud and haughty declare that they will have their liquor, constitution or no constitution," that is treason pure and simple.

The constitution, in article 3, section 3 and paragraph 1, says that "treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort." Note particularly that word "only."

The queerness of the case is that a distinguished Virginia doctor of divinity and secretary of religious education, who has been a college professor of moral philosophy, would deliver to the public such a flat fiat on the issue of treason.

There is, in fact, no odor of treason about the declaration that the learned divine cites and oppugns.

To make, sell, transport, import or export intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes are crimes of more or less offensiveness, but not one of them is treason. It is an ignorant use of language and law to so delineate any of them. But it is the peculiar obsession of the professional anti-saloonists to amplify those offenses by hot air inflation and to denounce those who do not blindly worship the Volstead act as "traitors."

There are multitudinous good Christian and non-Christian men and women in America who, on the basis of experience and results, do not believe the Volstead act is producing, or ever can produce, the system of prohibition that the eighteenth amendment was designed to effectuate. They are prohibitionists from principle and without guile. To recklessly charge them with "treason" is both morally and legally libelous.

But, after all, it is a consummate joke for any man, claiming the authority of "D. D." or "L. D." at the end of his name, to proclaim to an intelligent people that getting a drink of liquor, legally or illegally, is to be attained with the capital crime of "treason!"

THE TREK TO THE SOUTH.
The trek of our continental population during the lustrum from 1920 to 1925, for which survey figures are definitely known, has been from the north side of the Mason and Dixon line to the south side, and the relocations of the migrants have been notably more in the cities than in the rural regions.

The trend to southern California was the outstanding discovery. Los Angeles in the five-year period made the astonishing gain of 107.9 per cent, raising her population from 557,000 in 1920 to 1,200,000 in 1925; and she is still growing.

The city of Fresno, not far northward, gained 74 per cent in population in the same period.

Out in Texas the city of Dallas grew by 43.7 per cent; down in Florida the increase in Tampa was 79 per cent; and in Jacksonville 42 per cent; up in Virginia the city of Norfolk registered a gain of 46.9 per cent and here in Georgia our city of Atlanta was foremost with a growth of 25 per cent, equal to 5 per cent per annum since the federal census of 1920.

The percentage of increase of population in the big Henry Ford industrial city of Detroit, with Canadian hooch of all brands in arm's reach, was no greater than that in Atlanta. Chicago only gained 1.6 per cent, Cincinnati 1.7, New York 4.5 and Philadelphia 9.6.

It would be interesting and profitable to learn what were the leading factors in those named cities of the southwest and south from Los Angeles to Norfolk that caused their unusual increases in population? The nearest satisfying guess is that the creation and location of urban industries account for the increments. During the five years surveyed by expert civic engineers there has been a more rapid decentralization of manufactures and processing industries than in any equal period in the history of the nation.

Makers of necessities are getting closer to materials and to markets and in doing so are drawing after them the skilled, high wage-earning artisans and manipulators from the eastern and northern areas. And that readjustment of populations will continue for a generation ahead of us, at least.

Paraffinomas is the latest disease, brought about by injecting paraffin under the skin for cosmetic purposes. With runs in the face and runs in the stockings a woman goes to extremes getting a row for her money.

An enterprising reporter asked the grand old lady of Georgia to what she attributed her longevity. Possibly it never occurred to him that the outstanding reason was that she never died.

The wisdom of divorce is doubted in certain circles, but she is set upon maintaining her distinction as the way-shower to all who would join the march of modern civic development.

There is still on way for a woman to distinguish herself crossing the Atlantic. She could have her photograph taken without crossing her legs.

We may as well warn the women who are planning to hop off for Honolulu that there will be little opportunity on the trip to powder their noses.

Possibly the president went to the Black Hills for his summer vacation because of the combination of letters that spell "Cal." reading from right to left in "black."

It Edison succeeds in raising rubber grass in Florida and the state takes up its planting the folks down there will be walking easy again.

When reformers get to heaven they will find themselves out of a job.

It takes the profits of an acre of cotton for a Georgia planter to buy a bushel of Irish potatoes.

Tabloids take the position that the public doesn't desire both sides of a racy divorce suit but the inside.

Taking a glance at some of the gaudy hosiery worn by men, the sex appeal is decidedly outstanding.

WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Steel.

Despite all the publicity that heralded the march of 100,000 steel helmets in Berlin, the affair was a gigantic success. Berlin itself took little interest. A big sign floating over the Lustgarten asserted: "And still Berlin remains red!" The people of the German capital were not interested in the march of marching boots and the gleam of steel hats. It does not serve to restore confidence abroad. And so as by magic the Berlin parade was ignored the parade, which numbered in reality only half the participants that had been announced. The leader of the parade, the German minister of war, instead of playing at the goose-steep, citizens are anxious to work and recuperate economically and financially.

St. Paul on the Stage.
"St. Paul Amongst the Jews," the new play in Vienna that is causing a sensation, has its setting in Jerusalem several years after the Crucifixion, during the period of the Emperor Caligula. The author, a Jew, contrasts two worlds, the setting sun of Judaism and the rising star of Christianity. Judaism is represented by the infatuated old Rabbi Gamaliel, who looks upon Christ as a great man, but not divine; while Gamaliel's former pupil, St. Paul, stands for Christianity. St. Paul appears as a fanatic zealot. Although passionately fond of Gamaliel, he causes his doom. In the final scene, which occurs on Atheneion Day, to the sounds of the "Lamentation," Gamaliel is about to kill St. Paul as the greatest peril to Judaism, but when it comes to the point, he cannot. He calls to the God of Israel for enlightenment, but for the first time in his life the voice of the Lord does not answer him. St. Paul, however, claims to have heard the heavenly message to go forth, wander through the world and preach Christianity. Messages of persecutions, of slaughter of Jews by Gentiles, of the temple being consumed by flames, and Gamaliel is consumed by a corpse. It means the doom of Israel.

English Friendship.
"The English are a cool, cold and calculating race," writes a well-known French romancier, who himself just returned from his first visit to London. "They grow excited over nothing, but maintain their sang-froid under all circumstances." Others have made similar observations, and the result has been that the most curious legends have grown up about the British national character. But when the Frenchman observes "the English" he is incapable of an enduring and sincere friendship; he is utterly at sea. Let him start out by reading "Revolution in the Desert" and he will see how that man Colonel Lawrence went back, alone, into a hostile land, infested with throat-cutting and fanatical tribesmen to rescue one obscure Arab.

South Must Guard Against the Boll Weevil Menace
Editor, The Constitution: Lulled to a temporary sense of freedom from boll weevil infestation for the past two or three years, the cotton growers are generally unprepared for the present weevil menace which now threatens large areas of the cotton belt. The cotton boll weevil is an insidious, unobtrusive insect that ravages in the cotton belt of the south for the past 10 years can be counted in billions of dollars lost primarily to the growers and secondarily to the banking, trade, manufacture and commerce of the whole nation.

The business of entire counties have been annihilated in one year and thousands of farmers with their allied business interests forced into bankruptcy or financially crippled for years. The past year's losses of hard experience is here today and for the future.

Federal and state entomologists, the press and public reports from the sections are reporting an early infestation of the insects in numbers, which if not promptly checked will cause in the next three months a heavy loss of fruitage on hundred of thousands of acres of land planted to cotton. Frequent rains, showers and cloudy weather in June, July and August will present ideal conditions for heavy weevil infestation and consequent damage. Practically every cotton grower has been trained in correct weevil control methods.

The use of calcium arsenate poison in dust or spray, picking up and destroying punctured squares, the control of the crop is the only known reliable method for checking infestation. The first appearance of the insects should be the signal for prompt and effective measures for control. Supplies of poison and machines for application should be secured and the battle for saving the crop should be begun.

The world needs American cotton. Prices appear to be advancing week by week, and the outlook for continued weakness is most promising. However, the acreage planted, it is poor economy to allow the staple to be destroyed by insects.

TWO DEFENDANTS IN FITZGERALD MURDER CLEARED
Fayetteville, N. C., June 17.—(Special.) Kenneth C. Boone and Mrs. Mae P. Phillips were acquitted last night of the murder of Frank McLean.

The two defendants, charged with slaying the automobile mechanic in a woods near Fayetteville, last January, were acquitted when the foreman read the "not guilty" verdict.

Boone and Mrs. Phillips both employed a great array of counsel.

MAN, 94, WEDS HIS LANDLADY, 37
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.) Chicago, Ill., June 17.—A man is as old as he feels," said William M. Cheekman, 94, who tonight married his landlady, Annie Meyer, 37.

Cheekman is a pioneer of Chicago. On the day Fort Sumter was fired upon he enlisted in the Union forces and served throughout the war, being wounded and engaging in many battles.

During the Chicago fire he was one of the group that hanged an anarchist who was cutting hoses and interfering with the firemen.

Cheekman's first wife died five years ago at the age of 87. He owns a large farm in Kansas and several pieces of Chicago real estate. He has one son, now a student.

THE COMMON SENSE COUNSEL GIVEN BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN HIS LATEST SPEECH.

BY SAM W. SMALL.

The speech made by President Coolidge in Indiana last Tuesday, dedicating a soldiers' memorial port at Hammond, deserves more than casual reading. It is a speech, as an orator, was not of striking novelty. It was, however, a carrier of sensible suggestions on subjects about which the countrymen are thinking more or less seriously and sanely.

The president of the people is a figure of front page position for his public thoughts and for that reason they reach a wider publicity and get a more respectful attention than those of any other citizen.

Also, the president is presumed to have an impartial interest in the general welfare and to desire the best values for the people whose chief he is. Thus whatever he says as president is received with a cordiality and a confidence that a politician and a partisan can never command. The facts make it worthwhile to digest forthrightly from him, to the end that we may get profit from his suggestions, or find any fallacy in his arguments.

More for the Muscle Man.
One of the brilliant and practical Coolidge was in his statement that "there is a considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come to full participation in the wealth of the nation."

That is a declaration that in some countries would be denounced as so-called "class" prejudice, but in this country it is a statement of fact. It is a statement of fact that the chief magistrate of the freest and richest nation of the world is making. Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE GOVERNOR TAKES HIS ON THE HOOF.

When Governor Cox of Ohio ran for the presidency against Senator Harding of Ohio the governor was in fine physical condition and the senator was in bad shape. The governor went through the functional tests with a laugh like a schoolboy. He was there, absolutely fit. The senator, on the other hand, couldn't and wouldn't attempt 20 deep knee flexions. His cardiovascular equipment was scarcely equal to the test. When I went to examine the candidates I was much wumphy republican. When I came home I was a democrat. I tried to persuade everybody that we should elect the governor, as it was worth something to have the senator in the house anyway. This was all I was at liberty to say, at the time, for the senator exacted from me as a condition of my promise that I should not reveal his physical shortcomings. But of course no one paid any attention to my advice. Whoever does listen to a mere doctor's advice about anything other than the medical sphere?

Governor Cox made a regular practice of hoofing it from the gubernatorial mansion to the executive office mornings. Just how many blocks it was, I forget, but the taxi fare was something right. Of course the governor could catch a ride down to the office most mornings, yet he hoofed it, not because time hung heavy on his hands, but because he felt he couldn't afford to ride down, with the walking so good. He had a pretty sound notion, for a mere layman, of the value of health, and he seemed glad to pay the price. At any old time in the day the governor could knock off work, slip into a side room and enjoy a short nap, then hop up and at work again, refreshed and eager. That was a great asset for him.

Governor Ed Jackson of Indiana walks 42 blocks from the governor's mansion to the capitol, every day, winter and summer. He pretends he likes to walk, and he has always done considerable walking; he doesn't do it just to keep fit.

Neighbors and members of his official family feel sorry for the poor fellow trudging five or six miles to work, when they have vacant seats in their automobiles. But the governor can't be dissuaded. Once he makes up his mind about a thing, so the neighbors and political friends have taken to walking with him, those of them who are in fair training.

Governor Jackson is 52 years old. Despite this, as a newspaper item says, he never feels fatigued from his six-mile hike. That way of expressing it fairly reflects the general decadence that has befallen the American people. We actually think a man should be fatigued by a normal day's work. The public conveyance and the private conveyance have brought us to this low state. That and the familiar Yankee hokum about our high speed life and our high tension ways which is just an invention of the modern nerve specialist, about the same brand of appeasement as "democratic Americana." The only effect of this strenuousness is that it leads small caliber men into the error of thinking their time is too valuable to invest in walking. American business life seems considerably handicapped by affectation of the "wild party" and the serious living of which the land is afflicted.

But rags are enemies of religion. It was quite in character for a New England president to lay recent upon the need of the nation for greater religious devotion by the people.

Always religious conditions are vital and make for or against social and political stability. Much of the viciousness and decadence that shine like rotten mackerel on the surface of current American life are due to the neglect of religious culture. There are genuine religious men among the religious principles and practices. And the decline in the passing generation of the "old-time religion" accounts for much of the "wild party" and the serious living of which the land is afflicted.

REALTY TRANSFERS TOTAL $280,000

Several large property transfers involving an approximate total of $280,000 were disclosed in recording of Fulton county warranty deeds Friday.

Hugh Richardson purchased a parcel on Luckie street, between Cone and Spring streets, from the Fulton National bank. The property has a frontage of 40 feet on Luckie and extends back 100 feet. It was valued at $65,000.

Another transfer of property from Eugene V. Haynes to H. R. Cannon includes a large tract of land on Peachtree battle avenue, approximately 200 by 250 feet, and valued at $65,000.

Transfer of three parcels of real estate from McClure Realty and Investment company to J. L. Hargrove, trustee in bankruptcy of the McClure company, includes the southwest corner of Broad and Hunter streets, appraised at $120,000; the northwest corner of Mitchell and Mangum streets, appraised at $20,000; and a parcel on Twelfth street at $8,000. The Broad and Hunter streets corner carries a loan of $70,000. The site measures 75 feet on Broad and 90 feet to an alley on Hunter, and is improved with a two-story building. The property is to be sold at receiver's sale on June 26.

TWO GREAT LOVERS OF SCREEN OBTAIN MARRIAGE LICENSES

Los Angeles, June 17.—Two great lovers of the screen, LaRoque and Vilma Banks, Hungarian beauty, obtained a marriage license here Friday. The ceremony will be performed on June 26, they announced.

LaRoque's full name is Alexander Ross LaRoque and his age is 28. Miss Banks said she was 23.

City Chemist Certain Children Can Swim Safely.

From a bacteriological standpoint Atlanta's swimming pools are quite as safe as the city's private bathhouses, says Henry C. Martin, director of the city health department's laboratory of hygiene.

A rigid scrutiny of test tubes filled with water from Grant, Piedmont, Maddox, Mozley and Oakland City parks brought to light no malignant members of the germ family, Mr. Martin reported Friday.

Germicidal salts are in effect this year under the management of L. L. Wallis, in charge of city parks. One is a frequent draining of all city pools; another is repeated use of sodium carbonate and chlorinated lime solutions.

Judge in 6th Week 'Right-Ad' Contest To Be Named Sunday

All ads received before 9 o'clock Monday morning will be given the same weighty consideration in awarding the $50 cash and 120 other worth-while prizes for the present week in The Constitution's $4,000 Amateur Ad-Writing contest.

Local advertising experts who will serve as judges will be announced Sunday. Their services are now being enlisted. They will be fair and impartial committee members in no way connected with the contest.

Maier & Berkele, Inc., have offered a $25 pair of Gosham sterling silver candlesticks as a special prize. Full particulars are given in the list of special prizes.

Time for contestants follows:

Stewart's "Oh, My!"

This week Stewart's "Oh, My!" story was suggested as a theme for your ads. It will be interesting to writers to know how this name originated.

While these stories were given the name "Oh, My!" because they are so tragic and stylish, there was another reason they sell for $7.50 a pair. When ladies came to this store expecting to pay $10 for truly fine shoes and found that the ease and comfort of finely made shoes could be bought for $7.50 they said just what you would expect them to say—"Oh, My!"

Phillips & Crew Piano Co.

The new Victor records of the Orthophonic recording, as sold by Phillips & Crew Piano Co., employ the latest method of reproducing every little variation and reproducing every instrument in its life-like volume. With this new method of reproduction, many instruments which heretofore registered poorly are now made to stand out exactly as the artist plays them.

Paul Whitman.

Exponent of jazz speaking of the new Orthophonic recording method, mentioned the members of his orchestra that their playing must be more exacting than ever before. It seems that this new method catches everything and the slightest mistake is noticeable in the record.

Avondale Estates.

Here is what Mrs. M. M. Hale, of 126 Marietta street, says about Avondale Estates:

"The beauty of nature has vied with the hand of man in making a perfect home-site. To the home-seeker, Avondale is indeed the end of the rainbow. Here on well-lighted, paved streets you will find a location to fill any requirement. The Avondale nurseries provide a wide selection of trees, shrubs, evergreens and vines. Here are stores, a good school and fully equipped playgrounds. Here one can enjoy tennis, swimming, boating, open air motion pictures and concert programs."

Maier & Berkele, Inc.

Have you entered an ad in competition for the special prize offered by the Maier & Berkele Jewelry company? If not, be sure and do so during the next two weeks, for this establishment will give a $25 pair of Gosham sterling silver candlesticks to the person who writes the best special ad about Gosham solid silver.

Maier & Berkele, Inc.

Maier & Berkele, Inc., is proud of its stock of solid silver, which is one of the most complete in the southeast. It is surprising the variety of pieces to be found in both flatware and hollow ware at this store. An inspection of this establishment's stock will be inspiring to ad writers.

Special Prize Awards.

Rules on special prizes follow:

1.—Special prizes will be awarded at the close of the contest unless otherwise specified.

2.—In competing for the special prizes, "For Special Prize" across the face of your ad must be clearly legible.

3.—To have the same ad compete for the regular prize and a duplicate copy must be submitted.

The Prizes.

Twenty-five dollars offered for the best ad on Silverman's Golden Eye Bread. (Note: Only ads to which the Silverman's trade-mark is attached will be considered.)

Twenty-five dollars offered for the best ad on the "Nurek" packer, stating why it is the highest value on the market and naming its three best places.

A $25 non-transferable down payment on a lot offered by Avondale Estates.

Any woman's purse or woman's outfit bag bag carried in stock on Gladstone bag up to $50 in value offered by Rountree for the best ad on its business.

Portable phonograph offered by Phillips & Crew for the best ad on its business.

"Friedrich" model twin bedstead, made by the Southern Spring Bed company, offered by the Duffee-Freeman for the best ad on its business.

Twenty-five dollar Parker desk set offered by Jones Pharmacy company for the best ad about Parker pens and pencils.

Twenty-five dollar pair of Gosham solid silver candlesticks offered by Maier & Berkele, Inc., for the best ad on Gosham solid silver.

Rules of contest:

1.—The contest will be conducted at any time merely by sending an advertising idea in the "Right-Ad" editor, The Constitution.

2.—Everyone may compete except professional ad writers, non-resident employees. This is an amateur contest for people who have never written advertising.

3.—Write about any one advertiser or as many as you like. You may win any number of prizes.

4.—Each ad submitted must be on a separate sheet of paper. Write on one side of the paper only, but your name and address on the other side. Put as many ads as you want in the same envelope.

5.—The contest is under no obligation of any kind.

6.—A different group of judges will be selected and announced each week from among Atlanta advertising men.

7.—The name of all prize winners will be published and the names of the prize-winning ads reproduced.

8.—$1,000 in Cash and Prizes.

One hundred and twenty individual prizes will be awarded weekly—five prizes for the best ad on each advertiser.

Fifty dollars cash awarded weekly as a grand prize.

The four grand prizes of $500, $300, $100 and $50 will be awarded for the four best ideas of the entire contest.

SUMTER 'BLUE LAW' MODIFICATION SOUGHT

Americus, Ga., June 17.—(AP.)

Stringent "blue laws" recently ordered enforced by the Sumter county grand jury, prohibiting sale of gasoline, ice and other articles, operation of drug stores and all "labor for profit" on Sunday, would be modified under recommendations agreed upon today by a joint committee composed of representatives from the grand jury, the city council and the chamber of commerce.

It recommended lifting the restrictions to permit the operation of one gasoline filling station in each city of the county on the Sabbath and allowing all drug stores to be open except between the hours of 9 a. m. and 1 p. m.

The committee was organized the week after the rigid enforcement program went into effect at the behest of local business men, who claimed the law would work hardships on tourists and the citizenry in general.

It was indicated at the time that the committee recommendations would form the basis of an effort in the forthcoming session of the state legislature to amend the law.

Florida Governor Receives Salary Raise of $1,000

Tallahassee, Fla., June 17.—(AP.)

The salary of the governor of Florida has been increased from $9,000 to $10,000, it was learned here today.

At a recent meeting of the legislature an effort was made in the house to increase it to $12,000, and after the measure had reached the senate the governor was left as it had been for the past several years. Then the bill seemed to have been lost in the shuffle that followed and announcement today that the governor's salary had been increased $1,000 came as a surprise.

Members of the supreme court bench were raised to $9,000 after the house had tried to increase the salary to $10,000 and the senate had reduced it to $8,000.

ROGERS IMPROVING AFTER OPERATION

Los Angeles, June 17.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, cowboy humorist and mayor of Beverly Hills, was in a "highly satisfactory" condition at the California Lutheran hospital late today after undergoing a major operation this morning for removal of gallstones.

Dr. F. G. White, who performed the operation, said his patient "came through nicely." He did not attempt, however, to belittle the seriousness of the operation.

OUR CAPITAL PERISCOPE

Sam W. Small

From The Constitution Bureau.

Washington, June 17.—The capital, wit, the president gone fishing and congress scattered all over the map, is a rather dull place. Tourists taking in the sights of the official city of this mighty nation give it its principal signs of summer activity. But those people do not gladden the shopkeepers, for they are poor spenders except for cafeteria meals, and post cards.

This is the off-year in politics, yet there are many politicians from all over the country who are dropping into the national headquarters of the parties to get or to deposit information. There are no revelations of importance to be obtained in either recess.

One of the singular things that accompanied the home-coming of Lucky Lindbergh was the unprecedented demand for American flags and red, white, blue bunting to give patriotic color to his advent and progress through the homeland. The demand has forced some of the eastern printing and finishing establishments to run overtime in order to fill rush orders.

Cotton goods markets are suffering some slumps because of the rise in the prices of cotton futures and the inability of the mills to keep pace with the price levels for their goods. The mills insist upon higher levels and the buyers are refusing to follow the advances in any general way. Consequently there are threats that the eastern mills will slow down operations and curtail their outputs until their prices can be brought to balance with the raw cotton future markets.

The census bureau reports that in the past 10 months, from August 1, 1926, to May 31, the cottonseed crushed was 6,108,554 tons compared with 5,151,173 for the like period of the previous season. Crude cottonseed oil production increased over 250,000,000 pounds and refined oil increased over 240,000,000 pounds. Crude and refined cottonseed oil production increased nearly 200,000 tons.

Cotton consumption during May was 633,024 bales of lint and 72,706 of lintless, compared with 516,376 of lint and 63,199 of lintless in the like month of the preceding year, 1925.

NEW YORK CITY REFUSES KLAN RIGHT TO PARADE

New York, June 17.—(AP.)—Police Commissioner Warren's recent ruling forbidding parades by religious, racial or political organizations that might result in disorder was applied for the first time today, when he denied permission for a Ku Klux Klan parade on July 4.

The commissioner's ruling followed disorders incident to a Klan parade in Queens and a fascist parade on Manhattan on Memorial day.

Mr. Warren received the request for a July 4 parade by letter, written on the stationery of the Ku Klux Klan of Atlanta, Ga., and signed by a man purporting to be head of the organization in Queens. The letter sought permission to parade in full regalia.

Proof-- that Electrical Refrigeration is Expensive!

ELECTRICAL WORLD

"The following is a reprint from the 'Electrical World,' a magazine devoted to the electrical trade and electrical power interests.

"The kilowatt-hour consumption of domestic units (Electric Refrigerators) ranges . . . to a maximum of 1200 kilowatt-hours per unit per year in the South. . .

"Power companies have found that the installation of the domestic refrigerator can be counted on to double the revenue received from a residential customer."

"A first-class service organization is essential. Electrical refrigeration is still on trial in the public mind and the future of the business may depend upon the quality of service rendered in the next year or two."

The above explains why the Power Companies are so vitally interested in the sale of electric refrigerators.

From actual tests a popular sized household electric refrigerator will use 900 kilowatt-hours of electric current a year. At the prevailing local rate of 6c per kilowatt-hour, the minimum total cost for current is $54.00. In order to secure the special rate of 6c a separate electric meter must be installed at an extra expense.

In addition to the expense of $54.00 for electric current, which alone is more than the average annual ice bill, there is to be considered the interest on your investment, depreciation, repairs and service charges, the aggregate of which is several times the average yearly ice bill of $48.83 for the average family who make liberal use of ice.

NEW PACT SOUGHT FOR RAIL UNIONS

Cleveland, June 17.—(AP)—Local working agreements between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen will be recommended by the engineers to take the place of the national agreement which was abrogated yesterday.

The national, or "Chicago" agreement, as it is called, served to link the two brotherhoods together in their relations with the railroads and concluded the division of mileage between old and young employees.

H. E. W. of Washington, assistant general chief engineer, and one of the spokesmen for the fifth triennial convention of the B. of L. E., in session here, declared today that the suspension of the national agreement "will work no harm."

He said the engineers would recommend that local agreements be made with the firemen and enginemen.

"We believe that questions can be settled in different localities better than in one national agreement."

While Wills declared that the abrogation of the "Chicago" agreement, which had been in effect since 1913, would cause no friction between the two organizations, the reason for the national split, it is understood, was a disagreement between the unions last February when the engineers refused to vote with the firemen in wage negotiations with southeastern railroads.

The agreement will not expire for 30 days.

Officers of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen would not express their attitude toward local working agreements.

the victory in a fairly unipolar debate.

Mr. Lewis declined to answer Bishop Manning's question, saying that Bishop Edward Lamb Parsons, of the California diocese, indicated what he had said.

Bishop Parsons issued the following statement:

"The Rev. Lewis did not advocate loose views of marriage and sex relations. He was pleading only for dispassionate consideration of so-called modern views. No one who heard Lewis would feel that he is other than a clear thinker."

Dr. Guthrie said the church congress here this week by his unorthodox views.

"Protestantism," he said, "is as dead as a doornail. It has to be put back to look interesting. Christianity has lost its meaning. It is a thing, Egyptian and Roman. We must recover our connections with the primitive. Christianity must be re-born."

"You can't shut Christianity into the people of the orient either with bullets or dogmas."

"I don't believe in foreign missions. I don't expect you to agree with me. I don't want people to agree with me."

"We Christians are about as much as a dead man. We are not as we would be profoundly humble. You may ask if I believe in Christianity. That depends upon what you mean by Christianity."

"If you mean the reincarnation of the historical Christ in the man-god, my answer is yes. But if you mean a scholasticism of the year 200 A. D., or the formalism of the Nicene creed, my answer is no. God never intended anything like that."

"The New Testament was written by a lot of clumps who were thick in the head. They were thick-skulled, but their thick-skulled Christ, for he was a genius and knew how to make them serve."

"If we continue to believe as we do believe, I don't see any reason why Chinese and Japanese and foreign race should adopt Christianity."

A moment later, McTye entered the room and told him that her mother had fainted. Before he could reach the scene another shot sounded and upon arrival he found Mrs. Black dying and McTye already dead, he said.

Seeking Divorce.

McTye filed suit for divorce from his wife in Fulton county superior court on January 22 last, charging desertion. He had come to Atlanta eight years ago from Powder Springs, Ga., where his relatives reside.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randy McTye, of Powder Springs; two brothers, Paul and Grady; a sister, C. M. McTye; a sister, Mrs. Herman Williams; his estranged wife, Mrs. Irene McTye, of 410 Ontario avenue, S. W.; and a daughter, Mrs. E. C. Walton, of the same address.

Mrs. Black was separated from her husband, Herbert Black, some years ago. It was a domestic quarrel, she said, which led to her leaving him from Morrow, Ga., more than a year ago and was employed at the Municipal market. Louise, the daughter, was visiting her mother when the tragedy occurred, having journeyed from Morrow, where she resides with her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Trammell.

Lawyers to Hold Lakewood Outing Despite Weather

More than 100 prominent Atlanta lawyers are expected to visit Lakewood today for the annual barbecue of the Atlanta Lawyers' club, despite inclement weather forecasts.

J. Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association, operating Lakewood, announced Friday night that all tables have been placed in one of the large fair exhibition buildings and that the attorneys will experience no discomfort from showers.

A special committee of the lawyers Friday night completed plans for the annual affair. Following the "eat" members of the club and their guests will have the use of the newly constructed dance pavilion at the park. Midway attractions also will offer other special features on the entertainment program.

Courtrooms will be forgotten, the arguments limited to eating Georgia barbecue when club members today seek the annual rendezvous.

Preparations for the greatest Fourth of July celebration in Lakewood's history are being pushed by Mr. Mills and other officials of the fair association. One of the biggest racing events ever scheduled for Georgia is being planned, and many stars are expected to participate in the automobile races during the afternoon.

"Lucky Lindy" feat of crossing the Atlantic aboard the first heavier-than-air flying machine, will be presented in miniature form in fireworks that night. The lake at the park will play the role of the stormy Atlantic, and specially constructed rockets will shoot the "Spirit of St. Louis" across the sky.

KIP RHINELANDER MAIL IS RECEIVED AT RENO, NEVADA

Reno, Nev., June 17.—(United News.)—The revelation that four letters are being held at the Reno post office has given added weight to the report that Rhinelanders intend to seek a divorce here.

The disclosure that the wealthy New Yorker's mail was being sent to Reno, there was no further evidence of Rhinelanders' reported presence.

The rumors, prevalent for some time, stated that Rhinelanders wished to take advantage of Nevada's lenient laws against divorce.

WOMAN SAYS BEN DANCED HULA HULA TO WIN KISSES

St. Joseph, Mich., June 17.—(AP)—Ruth Bamford Reed testified in the state's receivership suit against the House of David colony today that Benjamin Purnell, the cult leader once essayed the role of a Hula Hula dancer for the entertainment of girl members of the colony.

After the exhibition, Mrs. Reed testified some of the girls kissed Purnell.

Mrs. Reed, who with her sister, Gladys Bamford Kubel, filed criminal charges against Purnell, repeated testimony she gave in a previous action against the colony. She said Purnell cowed girl members of the colony by quizzing them on the Bible.

Savannah Will Raise Funds for Redfern's Flight to Honolulu

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—(AP)—At a conference held this morning in the city of Savannah, representatives of the raising of funds to enable Paul R. Redfern, local aviator, to enter in an airplane nonstop flight to Honolulu.

The assistant secretary declared a meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in The Morning News town hall.

Prominent business men, representatives of the civic clubs, and other organizations will be represented at this meeting, when the proposition will be laid before them.

The sum of $15,000 has been named as the amount necessary for Mr. Redfern to make the flight in which he will advertise Savannah. The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Georgian have each subscribed $1,000 and it is hoped to raise about $3,000 more from various industries and organizations of Savannah.

son said, to carry it nearly 1,000 miles before the Hawaiian islands.

The assistant secretary declared that Lieutenant Maitland had been planning the Hawaiian trip "for at least six years," and added that when the C-2 was ordered some months ago it was with this particular flight in view.

"That the plan may be realized at this time," he said, "when the C-2 has been flown twice and when private citizens interested in aviation are offering rewards to stimulate a California-Hawaii nonstop flight is purely a coincidence."

FLIGHT IS PLANNED FOR MIDDLE OF JULY.

San Antonio, Texas, June 17.—(AP)—The United States army will attempt to make the first San Francisco-Hawaii nonstop flight not later than July 15, First Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland, pilot of the giant Fokker monoplane to be used on the flight, said here tonight on his arrival at Kelly field.

Lieutenant Maitland and First Lieutenant Albert R. Hagenberger, alternate pilot, are ferrying the Fokker from Bolling field, Washington, D. C., to San Diego, where it will be fitted for the ocean hop. The plane will be taken to March field, near San Francisco, for the start as soon as tests have been completed.

Captain Burdette S. Wright, operations officer at Kelly field, was the only person allowed inside the cabin of the plane. Doors of the cabin were fastened and canvas curtains had been drawn over the windows. Lieutenant Maitland admitted that there was equipment on the plane that he was under orders to keep from the public.

2 POLES EXECUTED BY RUSSIANS AS SPIES, PLOTTERS

Moscow, June 17.—(AP)—Two alleged Polish spies, Andrei Knipinski and Tadeusz Vorobiovich, said to have been commissioned by the Polish military intelligence service to assassinate three of the highest Ukrainian officials, have been executed at Kharkov.

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Aviation proved its capability and usefulness in the Mississippi flood territory as well as in Lindbergh's flight to Paris, in the opinion of Secretary Hoover.

"We would have lost possibly scores of thousands more lives in the flood region than we did if airplanes had not been available," Mr. Hoover said.

"The flyers courageously took their lives in their hands to make daily reconnoitering trips at low levels over one flood plain, knowing that they would not land safely anywhere and yet getting down so close to the surface that they could direct boats where to go to pick up people."

"Lindbergh, too, demonstrated that dependance can be placed in the airplanes of today. There are a good many indications that the facts disclosed have obtained effective attention from organizations which have contemplated aeronautic enterprise."

HOOPER PRAISES WORK OF AIRMEN IN FLOOD MENACE

Winona, Miss., June 17.—(AP)—Kitty Jones, 15, to whose alleged love affair with a married man was attributed the deaths of her father and mother and the placing of a murder charge against her cousin, was an inmate of the state hospital for the insane at Jackson today.

Mrs. Ira Jones, mother of the girl, said in a complaint filed against her that her daughter had been acting queerly for 12 years, and a jury decided that she was insane.

Ira Jones, the father, was slain in his home at Stewart two months ago and Mrs. Jones was wounded seriously at the same time. Kitty "confessed" to the slaying, saying she had killed her parent because he had shown hostility to a younger brother, and she was released under bonds to await action by the October grand jury. Two weeks ago the body of Boyd was found in a roadside ditch near Stewart and Amos Pearson, Kitty's cousin, was arrested in connection with his death.

Boyd had been shot, apparently from ambush.

Colleen Moore, Movies Star, Is Sued for Million Dollars

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Unfavorable weather caused Richard E. Byrd to postpone his trans-Atlantic flight today at least until Sunday night. That was the first moment he believed conditions could possibly be sufficiently improved to permit a hop off.

With Charles Lindbergh's New York reception completed the last obstacle besides the weather has been removed from the Byrd flight. When Lindbergh made his flight to France, Byrd announced that he would not take off until Lindbergh got back and later said he would not start until "the first flush" of the Lindbergh welcome was over.

Lindbergh left for St. Louis this morning and so the weather man was left standing alone in the path of Byrd's tri-motored Fokker.

Byrd, Bert Acosta and George Noville, the three who will fly together in the Fokker, were all at Roosevelt field today inspecting their plane and are waiting the condition of the weather charts.

FOUR MAY MAKE TRIP IN PLANE OF BYRD.

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd said today he might take a fourth person, a secretary, on his trans-Atlantic flight, but denied this person would be a woman.

"We are carrying 1,200 gallons of gasoline, sufficient to take four to Paris and beyond," he stated, "but the fourth, if there is one, will be a man."

It was reported the fourth might be Lieutenant Bert Balchen, former Norwegian naval officer, who said Byrd on his North Pole flight had been suggested Byrd might take the first woman trans-Atlantic passenger in the "America."

Byrd said she left California and came to New York after she had made seven, now, the company charged, it is feared the expensive little working girl is about to go to Europe for an extended visit.

Miss Moore was referred to as Mrs. Colleen Moore McCormick. Her husband, John McCormick, resigned as production manager of First National last month.

It was alleged that Miss Moore already had received $248,000 on her contract, and had asked for the rest on the grounds that the company was behind schedule in her pictures and that the last one, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," did not suit her.

Attorney Nathan Burkan asked Supreme Court Judge George Sullivan to take necessary steps to force arbitration. The judge took the application under advisement.

First National said Miss Moore was under contract to make 12 pictures.

First National said Miss Moore was under contract to make 12 pictures.

Byrd said she left California and came to New York after she had made seven, now, the company charged, it is feared the expensive little working girl is about to go to Europe for an extended visit.

Miss Moore was referred to as Mrs. Colleen Moore McCormick. Her husband, John McCormick, resigned as production manager of First National last month.

It was alleged that Miss Moore already had received $248,000 on her contract, and had asked for the rest on the grounds that the company was behind schedule in her pictures and that the last one, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," did not suit her.

Attorney Nathan Burkan asked Supreme Court Judge George Sullivan to take necessary steps to force arbitration. The judge took the application under advisement.

BYRD DOUBTS HOP BEFORE SUNDAY

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Unfavorable weather caused Richard E. Byrd to postpone his trans-Atlantic flight today at least until Sunday night. That was the first moment he believed conditions could possibly be sufficiently improved to permit a hop off.

With Charles Lindbergh's New York reception completed the last obstacle besides the weather has been removed from the Byrd flight. When Lindbergh made his flight to France, Byrd announced that he would not take off until Lindbergh got back and later said he would not start until "the first flush" of the Lindbergh welcome was over.

Lindbergh left for St. Louis this morning and so the weather man was left standing alone in the path of Byrd's tri-motored Fokker.

Byrd, Bert Acosta and George Noville, the three who will fly together in the Fokker, were all at Roosevelt field today inspecting their plane and are waiting the condition of the weather charts.

FOUR MAY MAKE TRIP IN PLANE OF BYRD.

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd said today he might take a fourth person, a secretary, on his trans-Atlantic flight, but denied this person would be a woman.

"We are carrying 1,200 gallons of gasoline, sufficient to take four to Paris and beyond," he stated, "but the fourth, if there is one, will be a man."

It was reported the fourth might be Lieutenant Bert Balchen, former Norwegian naval officer, who said Byrd on his North Pole flight had been suggested Byrd might take the first woman trans-Atlantic passenger in the "America."

Byrd said she left California and came to New York after she had made seven, now, the company charged, it is feared the expensive little working girl is about to go to Europe for an extended visit.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

INSTALLMENT LX.

For Sophy that half hour prolonged itself interminably, but for George Cattle it was a pleasant interlude in his rather dull routine.

For Piers...? Who but God knew the thoughts of Piers? He sat there, because there they had put him and he could do nothing for himself, not even say where he wanted to be or with whom. He could do nothing but glare, and since he glared all the time it had come to mean exactly nothing.

Not even the doctors knew how little or how much he understood of what was going on about him, whether his brain was wholly or only partially clouded, but they inclined to the belief that his intellect was dim and probably always would remain like that. It never occurred to them that he might be regaining the use of his limbs and body, it might be necessary to put him under restraint, or even take him away.

Sophy had so much to attend to, notwithstanding the valuable assistance rendered by Willie Moppet, that she had little opportunity in which to think of herself in connection with Alan. There was every manner of thing to do, solicitors and men of business to entertain, as well as the constant coming and going of doctors and interviews with the police that took up a great deal of time. There was, also, a constant stream of callers, headed by Princess Dohler, who came for the first time to the Villa Mona when trouble had visited it, and was not received.

Power to handle Piers' money matters was voted to Sophy in conjunction with one of his partners, and of this he became aware in the uncanny fashion by which he sensed so much more of what was going on about him than any one realized.

Piers knew that he was entirely at the mercy of the woman he had tried to murder, and she could do with him as she chose, and he believed she would take her revenge.

As Cattle bumped him along in the wheel chair as unconcernedly as a careless nursemaid pushing a pram, Piers conceived the idea that very likely Sophy would get up a flirtation even with his broken posed bruiser of a nurse. He fancied he had seen the beginning of it that first morning. The fellow was insolently familiar with her and it was plain enough that he did not want it.

O, for the power to move—for a tongue, even, that could speak! Glaring did nothing. They didn't even notice it any more.

So the weeks went by and things began to settle down to a humdrum routine at the Villa Mona. The Casa Poverina, too, ceased to provide food for interesting gossip. Cristina had gone to Pergarda, and where Alan Brooke and Giovanni had gone no one knew nor greatly cared. Only Willie Moppet had seen them set off in the little car which had been bought for quite another sort of flitting. Giovanni had set very gay and important beside his father, and a quantity of luggage was in the dicky. Alan was smoking a pipe and wore a hard bitter expression.

Willie Moppet had said: "Well, so long, old chap—hope you have a nice trip," and Alan replied: "Thanks. Sure to."

Willie wondered if and when he said goodbye to Sophy, and if she knew he was going away. But there had been no farewells between those two. Alan knew without being told that Piers Tancred stood between him and Sophy more effectively now than ever before.

Piers... that hulk of a man, more dead than alive! Alan raged, but silently. He knew himself to be far more helpless than Piers Tancred.

Landell was seeing a great deal of Cecilia Bryant in these days, but not so much of Mrs. Moppet as she had imagined he meant to do after that first outing. He timed his calls at the cottage very badly in respect to Mrs. Moppet, who had strict orders from her doctor to be in bed by half-eight at night, yet as he always brought her presents she was not minded to complain, except privately to Cissy that it must be a great disappointment to his lordship to come all that way for nothing. Cissy, the hypocrite, made no comment.

Cissy knew well enough what the Earl of Landell was after. He wanted her, and since he was neither young nor attractive enough to win her by his masculine charm alone, headed by Princess Dohler, who came for the first time to the Villa Mona when trouble had visited it, and was not received.

All doors would be opened to her—the whole world was hers, not for the asking but for the mere taking. Paris Meraud... fulfilled ambition. A moment would come, Cissy knew, when she would have to take it or leave it.

She smiled quietly to herself—the smile of a subtly gratified pussycat—when the moment was upon her. It arrived in the form of a note from Landell asking her to dine with him at the Dorin, and saying that he would send his car to fetch her.

Cissy showed Landell's invitation to Mrs. Moppet, wondering if the old woman would have sense enough to read between the lines.

Dear Miss Cissy (he wrote): Have pity on an aged gentleman, who is tied by the foot with gout, and dine with me tonight, if Mrs. Moppet feels she can spare you. You are a kind angel to us invalids. I will send the car for you at seven-thirty, and do hope you can come, as I feel I must be cheered up.

My affectionate regards to Mrs. Moppet. Yours, Landell.

"Do you think I ought to go?" Cissy asked, making pretense at doubt. "It might mean—it probably does mean dining alone with him in his private sitting room."

Mrs. Moppet was annoyed by this prudish suggestion as to propriety. "Of course you must go," she said bridling. "Don't give yourself airs, my girl. His lordship is old enough nearly to be your grandfather, and after all the kindness he's shown me, generously including you every time, it's little enough you can do in return by spending an hour or so with him when he's ill. Like as not he'd enjoy a game of draughts or bezique."

"You think so?" mused Cissy, stifling a cynical smile. "I was only wondering if you really could spare me."

"Catalina will stay with me. I don't suppose you'll be very late, anyhow," Mrs. Moppet replied. "If you see Mr. Willie by any chance you might tell him that he's been neglecting me shockingly and I feel very hurt."

Cissy turned a little pale. "Wear the dress he gave you for the concert," Mrs. Moppet advised her. "You look very nice in it."

"O, I'd rather not," Cissy said hastily. "O, no, I must save that for the spring. I'll wear my old white tulle."

Easy credit conditions were again a factor. Call money opened at 4 per cent, the lowest recent figure since Mar. 23, and was plentiful supply all day at that figure. With the retention of the 4 per cent. Federal reserve discount rate was generally expected. The further increase

There were several unfavorable factors in the day's news, but they failed to prevent the market from rising. The sharp drop in freight car loadings the week ended June 4, as compared with the preceding week which contained the record for the month of May, and the corresponding week last year, was interpreted in some quarters as a sign of a general decline in general business. The weekly mancastile reviews were rather colorless, although Dun's reported that the seasonal slump in commodities trading was not as marked this week as it was a year ago. Directors of the American Wheat Growers' Company passed the preferred dividend, and stock broke 14 points on a few sales.

General Motors Rises.

Gossard's report of the possibility of an extra cash or stock dividend continued to accompany the rise in the shares, which touched a record point at 235 1/2 on the 1000 to 200 3/8, lost 5/8 net. The further rise in Yellow Truck, which touched high ground.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A drop of about 2 cents a bushel in wheat features the commodity market. Cotton sagged 10 to 15 points, but coffee and sugar prices were steady.

A sharp rise of about 25 points in the price of silver was also reported, believed to be due to Chinese shoring covering was the only incident of note in the foreign exchange market. The dollar sterling rate was ruled slightly easier around 32.91 1/4 and 34.85 1/4, respectively.

Shares of these funds advanced briskly. The industry was stimulated sharply. Its strength was based on the fact that the industry was not toward the consummation of its present plans.
